Dolores Chili adds another chain to the list. Vons will now carry Dolores Chili Bricks in their frozen section.

For years Dolores Chili has been a popular item at various Southern California grocery stores.

At chains such as Stater Brothers, Albertson's and Food 4 Less, the Chili Brick is on shelves behind freezer doors or next to frozen poultry and beef in the frozen meat section. Vons is the newest edition to the list.

We've seen our chili distributed to some Vons stores, but now it's in all of them across Southern California, said Dolores Chili's plant manager, David Munoz. "Consumers have called and asked why they couldn't find the Chili Bricks while out grocery shopping. Now I can direct them to Vons as well."

Chili Bricks are also sold to restaurant owners and operators at Smart & Final, Restaurant Depot and on Costco Wholesale's on-line Business Delivery page for those willing to pay the shipping fee (five-pound bricks are $10.78 each, with a $20 flat rate for shipping). EDistributors across Southern California and nationwide also carry the Chili Bricks on their product lists and sell to restaurants, fast food chains and hamburger and hot dog stands.

Distributors who wish to add Dolores Chili Bricks to their product list should contact Munoz at sales@dolorescanning.com.

Dolores Chili is famous at Philippe the Original in Downtown L.A where it is served in a cup with crackers on the side.

Chili dogs, chili burgers, chili fries and the famous straight bowl of chili are the most common ways Dolores Chili is served.

Dolorescanning.com also sells the chili directly to consumers at www.dolorescanning.com/catalog.
